HomeWiseDocs.com and Jenark Announce Software Integration To Streamline Operations and Ensure Data Accuracy

ROCKVILLE, Md., April 16, 2009—Jenark Business Systems, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of First Advantage Corporation (NASDAQ: FADV) and a leading provider of fully integrated property management and financial accounting software and services to the real estate industry, today announced its successful integration with HomeWiseDocs.com. This will streamline operations and increase efficiencies for all Jenark customers nationally who use HomeWiseDocs.com for the expedited delivery of time-sensitive data in real estate transactions. Jenark customers are now able to download real estate documents from HomeWiseDocs.com with the appropriate data automatically populated from the Jenark database.

HomeWiseDocs.com has spent the last two years building the industry's state-of-the-art system to assist homeowners, real estate agents, closing agents and lenders in obtaining vital information needed to transfer title or refinance a property within a common interest development. "Our integration with Jenark allows not only community managers but also third-party users to experience a streamlined disclosure or closing process not currently found in the market, utilizing address searches, native document file transfers and unit data transfers all at the click of a mouse," said Greg Pater, chairman of HomeWiseDocs.com. "By integrating accounting processes with the latest technology employed to handle third-party data and document requests, Jenark users can save valuable staff time, while increasing quality control, as compared to traditional closing or disclosure methods. We are honored to work with Jenark and share their commitment to providing the most advanced community management technology. We hope to form new partnerships by integrating with all Jenark users," explained Pater.

Founded in 2007, HomeWiseDocs.com provides the management industry with the most robust tools for automating the disclosure process and enhancing revenue opportunities. "Because of our user-friendly technologies, automated processes and strong accounting solutions, the HomeWiseDocs.com and Jenark solution will help facilitate management company growth," HomeWiseDocs.com President Manny Chaves commented.

"This integration cements both companies' leadership positions in our respective service areas within this dynamic industry. It is with great pleasure that we announce the unification of our technologies and encourage our respective users to adopt these time-saving tools. The addition of HomeWiseDocs.com to the list of Jenark's solution providers will greatly enhance the operations of our customers and help them to achieve their desired business goals and maximum operational efficiencies," said Mark Jennings, president of Jenark.
